The Public Health.

"An ounce of preventive is better than a pound of cure," is an old adage that is parin these respects has led to a public carelessness mining its progress. Attention to cleanliness the peculiar substances upon which it feeds. There should therefore be a strict observance of here." sanitary laws in all places, especially in this city. that shall be effective in preventing the spread of disease, should it be bred in our midst, or, which is not impossible nor improbable, be brought hither by ship in these days of speedy and universal travel. The terrible Asiatic cho lera, that mysterious scourge of the nations, is now on its slow but sure march westward, and will doubtless find its way to California, our nearest neighbor, as it has before. We have now in our waters a ship direct from Buenos OFFEE -- Ceylon plantation, 101d per lb.; ditto, native, 8d Ayres, -- which port she left less than two months ago,-and there the dreaded vellow fever has been busy, carrying off, as the newspapers report, over 27,000 of the inhabitants. The idea appears somehow to have gained credence here, visitation of these or similar epidemics. Let us

We assert as a fact that is patent to any observer, that the sanitary condition of this city is such as in itself might easily breed a pestilence, were the trade winds, as they sometimes do at this season, fail us altogether, to be succeeded for weeks together by light airs from the south. Garbage is plenty in yards and streets, and halfrotten vegetables are stored in cellars. The hot sun is a putrifyer, and with its heat chemical laws are active, and noxious and deleterious gases are abundant. Vaults-never emptied in Honolulu-and cess-pools, are in a ferment; their exhalations load the air, and these are amongst the most pernicious elements of disease. With the hot weather which has for months prevailed, and still continues, and the accumulation of decaying vegetables, fish, and garbage to ferment and decay, together with the noisome exhalations of vaults, the seeds of disease are daily generated, to ripen and become active in the community on the first opportunity that

We do not make these statements for the purpose of exciting alarm, but to impress the importance of the most rigid sanitary measures being taken by the proper authorities. And the Board of Health, if there be such a body in existence, is the proper authority to act in this case. The fact of the Board's having any legal existence was seriously questioned by a correspondent of this journal in June last, and its inaction at this time would indeed apparently lead to the conclusion of its non-existence. The Government itself, too, seems to have become impressed with this view, for the organ of Wednesday last complains piteously and helplessly (in a small item, by the way) of the "disreputable state of filth in certain parts of the town," and of " the stench, in some of the alleys and streets about town, almost unbearable." If it shall appearand we have no doubt of the fact in a legal sense -that the Board of Health has inadvertently been abolished, the sooner it is re-created the better. Timely attention to this subject by the ruling genius of the Cabinet, may prevent unpleasant consequences.

It is now about five years ago since the Board of Health showed any marked signs of vitality. During the summer of 1865, considerable attention was drawn to the sanitary condition of this city, and an attempt was made to have a general cleaning of the Augean stable. A new Board of of Drs. Hillebrand and Hutchison, and Mesers. Kamakau and Heuck. Agents were employed. FROM WINDWARD PORTS—Per Kilanea, Aug 26—P C Jones and to some extent the purlieus of the city were Ber A O Forles. Samuel Bishop, visited and the occupants compelled to clean up or be fined. But that was some time ago, and ourd has since been appointed. In June, 1865, the then Board published a set of seniouv rules, which, if strictly carried out now, by an opent specially appointed, will be what is imperstively needed. We reproduce these rules, for the public benefit, and as a hint to the Board of DECISION CONFIRMED .- During the past week, His of this Lodge, and that a copy of the same be sent to the widow of our late Brother.

Honor Chief Justice Allen, rendered the decision of the Court in the matter of the estate of Hannah It is feared Forster, the New York murderer, Maughan, which was an appeal from the decision of Mr. Justice Hartwell. This is an important case, as establishing a precedent in cases of adoption of children. Mrs. Maughan died intestate, leaving a sister and an adopted child. The latter claimed to be the legal heir of the intestate, under the adoption. Judge Hartwell held that the adopted child coald not inherit to the prejudice of a blood relation, unless by the terms of the adoption it were specially so

A Fine Opening, &c.

The Gazette hopes to see, by the 1st of January, ing of the old feudal days. Lessee ready to take possession and commence ousiness in the New Hotel. We do not wish to be rude, but venture to state here, that we don't believe it hopes or expects any thing of the sort. After asserting that the hotel " will at once command patronage, and will establish itself firmly," the organ says " it is very likely that we shall have to look abroad for a Lessee." Why? Is there no one here who understands how to cater for "the needs of the community?" Surely if the enterprise is going to be at once so successful, our own people ought to have the first show There has been one departure—the Camden, August 231, ticularly applicable to Honolulu in view of our to get rich out of it, in preference to strangers. liability to visitation by epidemic or contagious But, reading a little further on we observe that diseases from abroad. How it Strikes a Stranger.

MR. EDITOR :- I remember among the reading lessons of my old school days, one entitled " How it Strikes a Stranger," and have thought that if we of Hawaii would sometimes lift our egotistical eyes from the contemplation of our own little Pacific mushroom bed, shallow devices and pottering horticulture, and and the laborers gone. pay some passing regard to the amused stranger who stands quietly observant at our elbow, (Heb. 13: 2), we might profit by the recognition. Of Parliaments and their appliances, of social evils and their remedies, of commercial conceits, internal improvers, tall foreign relations, war departments and other Health had been appointed that year, consisting half of Vauity Fair. Ramie I believe is on trial. but why should stranger ramie, cuckoo like, usurp the rightful dominion of olona, &c. Who ever handled the beautiful olona as prepared by the native fishermen, and did not wonder at and admire its fine and glossy texture, astonishing strength and clean and silky richness? You pass the shining threads musingly between your fingers, and perchance recall some " sunny wealth of hair in radiant ripples bathing the rounded throat and dimpled shoulders" of-a brown study. The olona grows wild in Hamakua and Hilo forests and gulches, and will endure a good many cuttings. Samples have been sent abroad,-with what result I never heard. A shocking murder had been committed by the mountain tribes of Viti Levu. Two planters. Messrs. Thakomban had gone in pursuit of the murderers with an army, in which were 300 white Another murder had occurred near Levuka.

Twelve South Sea Islanders, laborers, were on board a ketch lying at anchor at night. The next morning the one white man and his native assistant who were on board, were found horribly murdered,

We clip the following in regard to the "labor trade," which we recommend for the perusal of our incredulous contemporary :

The ketch Bismarck has arrived at Viti Levu, from a labor cruise. On cruise down she had fair weather. ON BOARD S. S. NEBRASKA,

To CAPT. ISAAC HARDING, S. S. "NEBRASKA." DEAR SIR :- We, your passengers from New Zealand us; and our entire satisfaction as regards the capabilities of the Nebraska, of which we have had ample opportunities of judging, the first three days out from Auckland heavy gales having prevailed, with a high sea running, during which she behaved nobly, and rolled less than is ordinarily the case with

We cannot speak too hiligity of the saloon and sleeping accommodations, which are spacious and admirably ventilated to suit the hot weather of the tropics, so that altogether under Providence we have progressed most pleasantly and prosperously, and if all goes well we shall reach Honolulu many hours before contract time. We would in conclusion, ask you to convey our best thanks to your several officers for their civilities and courteous behavior to us, and wishing every success to the United States, New Zealand and Australian Mai eamship Line, that it may be permanently and firmly establishel; and that your own career may prove as prosperous her after as it has been on this occasion, we are

Yours respectfully, J. G. Williams, W. H. Ewald, Alex. Kennedy, Henry Dickson, W. Strange, W. Edwards, A. A. Thomas, William Quirk, Henry Macfariane, Joseph B. Greenfield, D. M. Beee, James J.
